For urgent, stable patients, call and identify the referring clinician, clinical question, symptoms, urgency and callback number. Triage and availability guide timing. For an emergency or unstable symptoms, call 911.

Include the records that answer the clinical question

- Referral question, urgency, recent note, medication and allergy list, and relevant labs.
- ECG and relevant echo, stress, rhythm, CT, catheterization or vascular reports.
- Actual image files when important; include facility names and study dates.
- Procedure or hospital records, demographics, language needs, insurance and authorization details.

Common reasons to refer

Chest symptoms, exertional shortness of breath or abnormal studies; coronary disease; palpitations, dizziness or syncope; valve concerns; leg pain, wounds, DVT or swelling; prior imaging, proposed procedures or complex decisions.

After referral

Records are reviewed and the office contacts the patient. Testing is considered when it may affect the plan. Assessment is communicated through a documented channel. Confirm the exact insurance plan with the office.

Use the secure form or fax for clinical records. Do not send patient information through public email.
